How-to: Search

1 Start your search

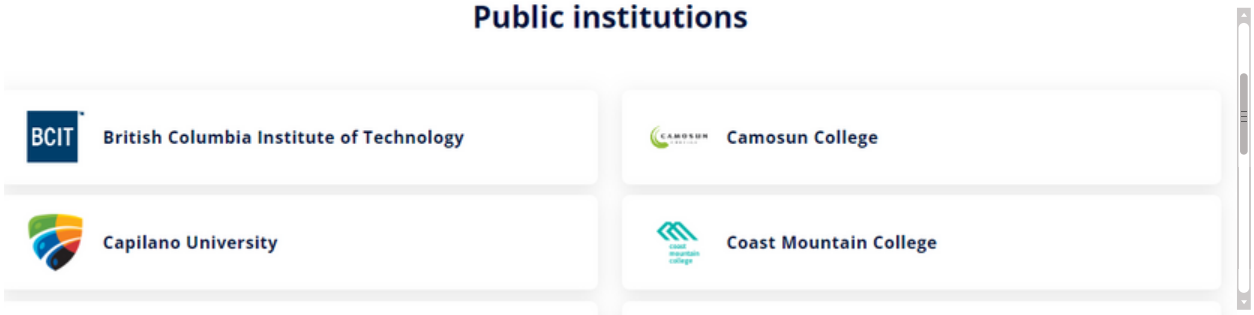

Discover thousands of programs available at post-secondary institutions in B.C. Use the search bar or try adding filters such as Institution, Program type, Credential, Locations, Study length, or Area of study.

TOP TIP: We recommend starting your search using less filters. For example, if you know a subject area you are interested in, type that into the search bar and add one or two filters. This will allow you to see all options, and then you can narrow your results once you have made some decisions.

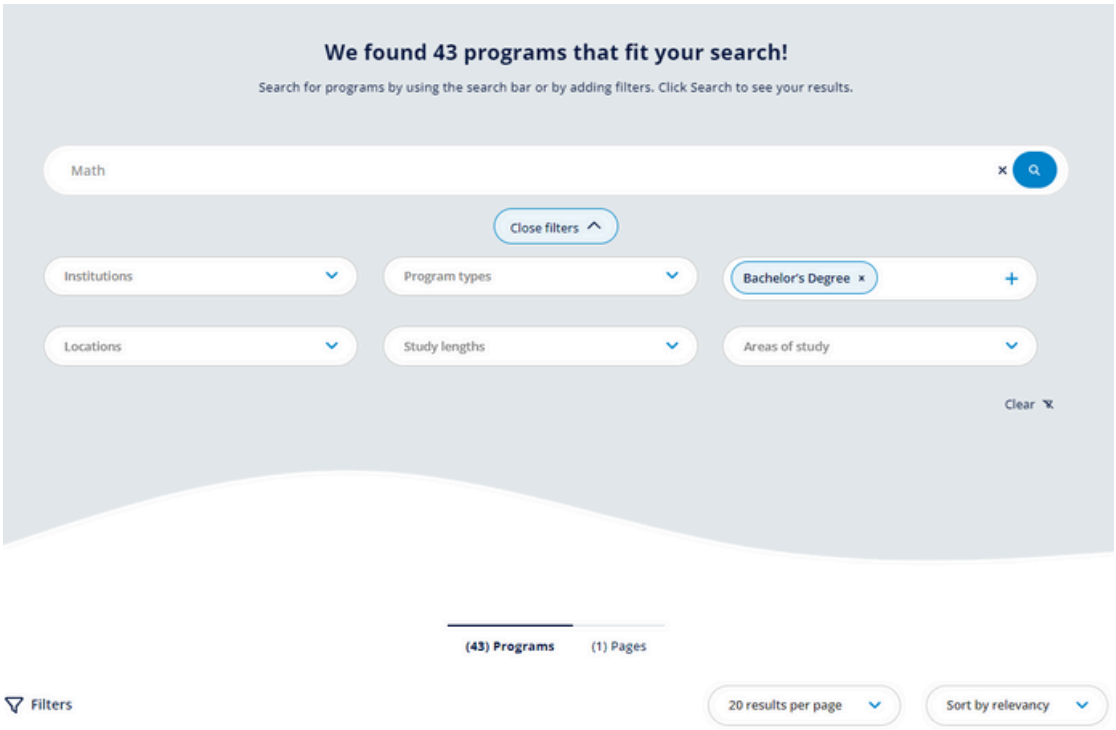

Want to learn more about B.C.'s public post-secondary institutions?

On the Search homepage, scroll down to see a list of public post-secondary institutions. Click on the institution's name to learn about the programs they offer, where they are located, and so much more!

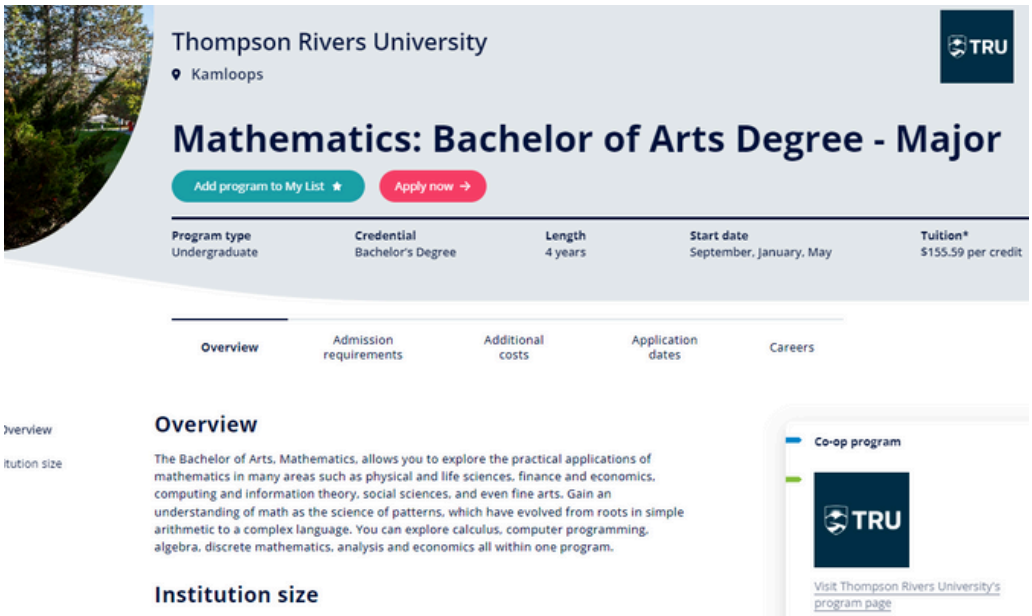

2 Review your search results!

Once you have added your search filters, click the search icon to view your results. If you wish to narrow down the results further, add another filter. Note: results are automatically sorted by relevancy.

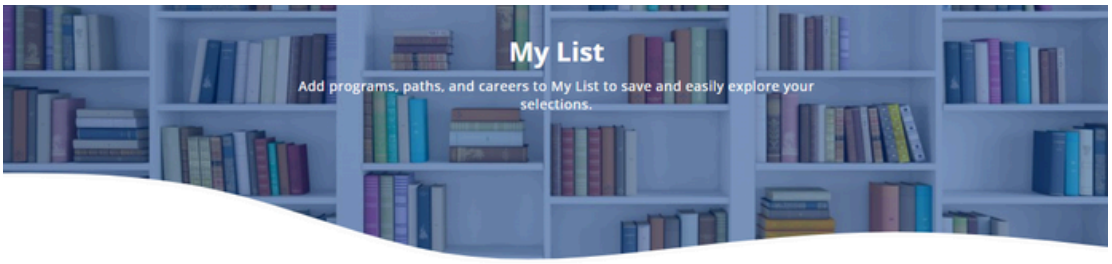

3 Learn more about a program by viewing the program profile page.

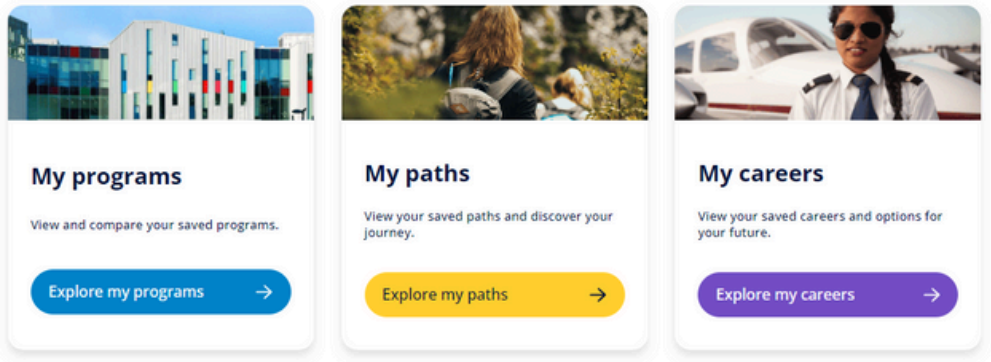

See a program you're interested in? Click on it to view the specific program page and find information such as an overview of the program, admission requirements, length and start date.

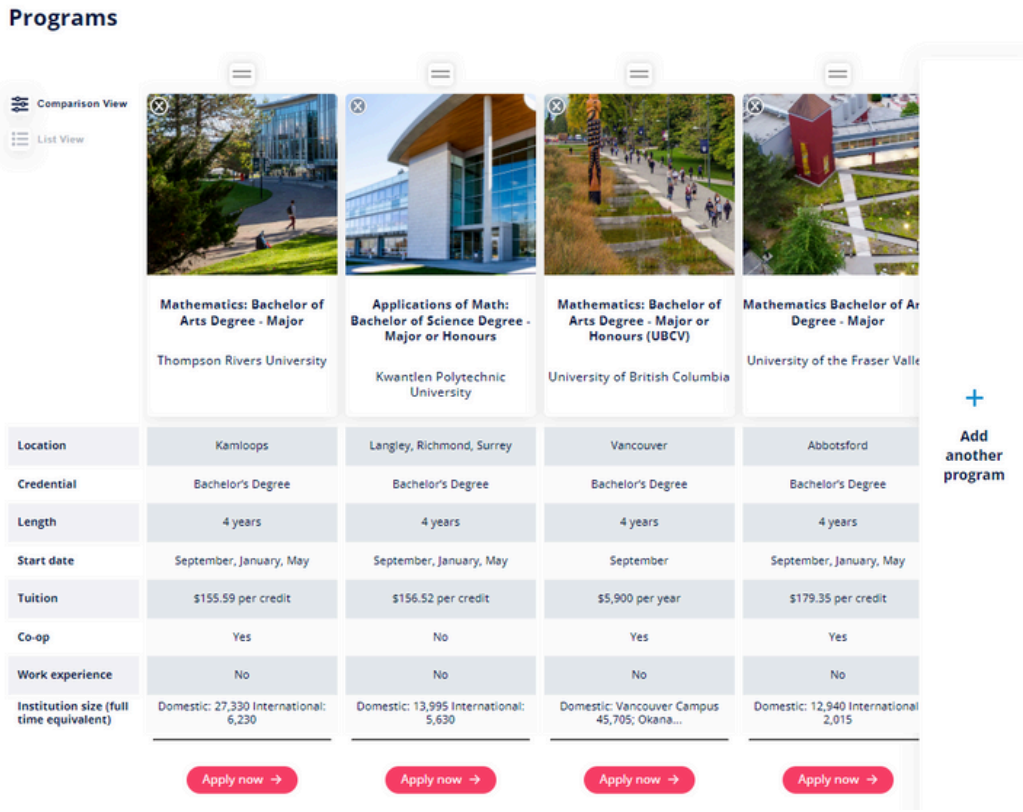

4 Want to save a program for later? Add it to My List.

To use My List you will need to create an account. Simple to use! Just use a personal email address and password. This is the same account you will use to apply. My List allows you to save programs, paths, and careers all in one place.

Look for the “Add to My List” button, to save and compare your programs, paths, and careers all in one place. Easily return and review at any time.

5 When you are ready, Apply!

If you are ready to start submitting applications, click “Apply now” on the program page or within My List. Once you're in EducationPlannerBC's application service, you can complete your application.

You’re now ready to start using EducationPlannerBC’s Search! If you have any other questions feel free to reach out to us at support@educationplannerbc.ca.
